

Hon. Mark Levine, Manhattan Borough President
Manhattan Community Boards Demographic Report for 2024

Pursuant to New York City Charter section 82 (17)(a), the Office of the Manhattan Borough President submits this report on the application and selection processes for the appointment of community board members for the 2024-2026 term.

Introduction and Vision for Manhattan Community Boards

Community boards are an essential form of local democracy, providing local community members and stakeholders with a volunteer opportunity to govern their neighborhood and city. Composed of 50 volunteer members serving staggered two-year terms, community boards are tasked with reviewing and making recommendations on complex, local issues impacting education, parks and open space, libraries, housing, transportation, economic development, zoning, the environment and city planning, among other critical aspects of urban living. In addition to appointing 300 members to the Borough’s 12 community boards each year, the Manhattan Borough President’s Office (MBPO) also works to provide professional support and extensive trainings to board members and staff in order to increase efficiency and impact.

The MBPO firmly believes in the pivotal role community boards play in shaping the future of their districts. In keeping with Borough President Levine’s commitment to better supporting communities that have been historically overlooked and ensure community boards adequately reflect the diversity of our neighborhoods, the MBPO has continued to seek out Manhattanites who have historically been less represented on community boards, including but not limited to youth 16 years or older, public housing residents, and people holding marginalized identities. Borough President Levine is committed to ensuring that community boards authentically reflect the diversity of the neighborhoods they represent, lifting up the lived experience and concerns of Manhattanites who have long been underrepresented.

The goals of diversity and equity guided the community board application outreach, review process, and final appointments.

Community Board Application and Outreach Strategy

Borough President Mark Levine took office on January 1, 2022, and promptly began the process of creating and publishing the 2022 Manhattan Community Board application. In addition to asking applicants questions on demographic information including name and address, residence, business professional, other significant interest in the community district, age, gender, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability status, languages spoken and other demographic information that applicants chose to disclose, our inaugural 2022 application also attempted to capture additional information on educational attainment, special skills, car ownership, and community involvement. Both new and re-applicants were asked quantitative and qualitative questions about their civic engagement, needs of their communities, and goals for their time of potential service on the board. We have since updated the application to better acquire individuals looking to address current concerns in the borough as well as ensure the board is able to achieve its objectives. The 2024 application includes a new quantitative and qualitative question regarding mental health outreach and support. It also now includes a separate affirmative statement in regards to attending meetings in-person to the best of an individuals abilities which supports board who may have issues achieving quorum at committee and full board meetings.

On January 11, 2024, the application was published on the MBPO website (www.manhattanbp.nyc.gov), with a deadline of February 23, 2024 at 5pm. Direct correspondence was made between the MBPO, District Managers, and community board Chairpersons to alert them of the application and request their assistance in sharing the application link among their members and larger community lists. Borough President Levine also promoted the application at Borough Board and Borough Service Cabinet meetings in January, February and March, as well as at monthly district service cabinet and full board meetings for all 12 Manhattan community boards.

Additionally, MBPO utilized a wide range of tools to further promote the application. The Community Affairs Unit of MBPO reached out to public housing tenant leaders, community-based organizations, public high schools, not-for-profit organizations and other community-based groups in order to both promote the application as well as present to their tenants. The MBPO also requested the assistance of all Manhattan City Council Members to further promote the application throughout their districts and listservs. The MBPO created a digital ad that ran on LinkNYC towers throughout the Borough, and purchased advertisements in local newspapers and social media. Borough President Levine also attended various community meetings and participated in interviews with local news outlets encouraging Manhattan residents to apply.

The MBPO decided to extend the application for two additional weeks in order to increase the overall number of applicants, with a new deadline of March 8, 2024. This extension was announced using all of the aforementioned community outlets. For the term beginning in 2024, the MBPO received a total of 838 entries, inclusive of both new applicants and reapplicants.

In 2024, the MBPO created a series of LinkNYC ads that ran throughout the borough. The ads ran until the end of the application period on March 8th (see image below of a sample of LinkNYC advertisements that ran in the 2024 application period). In addition, the MBPO purchased additional digital advertising on social media platforms (Twitter, Instagram and Facebook), using the same series of advertisements running on LinkNYC kiosks.

Two (2) of six (6) total digital advertisements that ran on LinkNYC kiosks and social media MBPO has also dedicated staff time towards earned media coverage.

2024 coverage of the Manhattan Community Board application process in the West Side Rag

In addition to street and digital advertising, the MBPO organized several Community Board information sessions on select NYCHA campuses throughout the borough. Particular attention was given to community board districts with high numbers of NYCHA residents – specifically Manhattan Community Board 3 and Manhattan Community Board 11, but MBPO staff also attended NYCHA tenant meetings throughout the borough to promote the community board application process. Ultimately, these additional targeted efforts and expanded application timeframe proved successful in increasing the overall number of applications.

Community Board Application Review and Appointment Process

While the application portal was still open, the MBPO staff began the process of assessing vacancies on all community boards. Upon consultation with community board District Managers and Chairs, it was confirmed that there were 87 vacancies in total on the 12 community boards at the beginning of the 2022 appointment cycle. A table of this disaggregated information can be found below. In the 2023 appointment cycle, there were 107 vacancies. A table of this disaggregated information can be found below. It is important to note that the overall number of vacancies has continued to fluctuate, as board membership is dynamic based on removals or resignations throughout the year. It is also important to note that when considering community board appointments, the Borough President looked not only at vacancies, but took steps to consider the applicants for all 300 seats that were either open or up for reappointment.

MBPO staff utilized each district’s census data profile as provided by the Department of City Planning compared to the demographic makeup of each community board to help determine whether the aggregate of appointments fairly represent all segments of the community. Staff also received input from community board District Managers with regard to geographic representation, as well as other diversity needs, including more participation from public housing residents, working parents, people living with disabilities, small business owners, veterans, and people holding marginalized identities.

In the 2024 application cycle, every new and returning board member application was read and carefully considered by MBPO staff. In most cases, the essay portions of every application were reviewed by at least two MBPO staff members.

After the application portals closed, a digitized version of all applications for each council district was distributed to every Manhattan City Council Member. Council Members received copies of all applications that resided, worked or had a significant interest in their districts. The digitized applications included the full application as well as any additional documents (such as a resume or curriculum vitae) that were submitted. Borough President Levine and MBPO staff also met individually with Councilmembers to review applicants and community board vacancies.

Wanting to give every applicant full consideration, the MBPO staff offered all applicants, both new and re-applying, the opportunity to participate in the interview portion of the review process. The interview process consisted of a 2-hour virtual exercise in which applicants were randomly placed in break-out rooms with approximately 10-15 other applicants. While in these breakout rooms, the applicants were asked to consider and discuss two community board scenarios - one focusing on land use and the other focusing on City budget. At least two volunteer evaluators (with at least one being from MBPO staff and the other being a volunteer staff member from a Manhattan City Council Member office) were assigned to each room and were asked to review each applicant and complete a digital evaluation form at the end of each interview session. Applicants were reviewed on their ability to communicate, active listening, ability to identify problems and come up with creative solutions, to respectfully engage with others, collaborate, and establish next steps. In the 2024 interview cycle, MBPO offered 7 interview dates between March 13 to March 19, 2024, with at least one session on every day of the week and at various times in order to accommodate as many schedules as possible. Each session was capped at 110 participants. In total, 609 applicants participated in the interview process. Disaggregated tables of applications received as well as interviews conducted for 2023 and 2024 are below.

For the 2024 application cycle, after the interview sessions were complete, MBPO staff used information from the submitted application as well as the reviews from every applicant’s interview session to create a list of recommended appointees for each community board. In nearly every board, the list of recommended candidates surpassed the number of vacancies. The Borough President reviewed staff recommendations, as well as the submitted applications before making final selections for board appointment.

Demographics

The MBPO has maintained anonymized demographic information disaggregated by community board on the office’s website (manhattanbp.nyc.gov). The following information below describes the demographic information that board members voluntarily disclosed as of 2024.

While the MBPO is very proud of the 2022, 2023 and 2024 classes of appointed board members with regard to the diversity of voices and experiences, there is still much work to be done to increase broad representation on Manhattan community boards. We strongly believe that with future appointment processes, expanded outreach, additional advertisement in languages other than English, and thoughtful consideration of all applicants, Manhattan community boards can become a more powerful tool in uplifting often overlooked and underserved communities.

Summary

The MBPO remains extremely proud of the overall outreach, review, and appointment process for Manhattan Community Boards. Though the 2022 appointment cycle was limited on time due to the inaugural first few months in office for the new Levine administration, the cycle brought in the second highest number of applicants in the history of the office, second only to the 2017 cycle following the 2016 presidential election. Building on this success, the MBPO’s targeted outreach efforts in 2024 brought many applicants from varied backgrounds than the previous years. The 2024 class of appointees brings a depth and diversity of perspectives, experiences, creative ideas, and tremendous enthusiasm for public service and civic engagement to their boards. Beyond the metrics outlined above, significant outreach and presentations meant that we were able to welcome members who self-identified as being members of the criminal justice impacted community.

As New York City continues to recover from the devastating impact of COVID-19, conversations about how our streets, schools, hospitals, park space, and housing should be developed and preserved have never been more present in both public discourse and governance. Now more than ever, it is critical to have diverse representation and participation both on community boards and in all realms of civic engagement.

Manhattan community boards still have a long road ahead towards not only broadly and comprehensively representing their districts, but also creating working environments that uplift voices of groups that have historically been marginalized. In the coming years, the MBPO will continue to explore additional opportunities to expand outreach, trainings, and a maintain a data-driven, comprehensive approach to board appointments.
